Honest to God

This parable teaches us about who God will accept into the kingdom of heaven after they have died. God does not care if you have not believed in Him at some point in your life. If a person comes to have faith in God and gives up his life to follow Christ, they are far more welcome in the kingdom of heaven than a person who claims to be a believer, but is insincere. This parable teaches us that God doesn't want someone like the second son, who claims to be something that he is not. The first son does not lie and ends up helping in the end, unlike his brother who creates a false image of himself as someone who helps, but in the end he is only letting his father down, which is exactly what God tells us not to do. God can work with our hearts if we are honest and real with Him and ourselves. —Deacon Rick

No More RSVP for Masses!

As of September 9, we are dropping the requirement for people to RSVP for the 0900 Mass. Since we are well below the threshold of attendance, this requirement is unnecessary. If it creeps up closer to 200 we can revisit it. Trying to make going to Mass easier! Thanks.
